FACILITATED ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS

Facilitated Round Table Discussion groups harness the power of executive peer to peer learning and sharing. These group coaching sessions are customized exclusively for non-profit executives. Facilitated round tables are highly focused powerful yet practical peer coaching groups that are tailored to meet the needs of non-profit leaders. Members will participate by sharing their own experiences and expertise on each topic.

Groups are tailored to meet specific needs and experience levels:

- Seasoned executive directors
- Executive directors with less than 2 years experience
- Sr. departmental leaders of large non-profits
- Small Non-profits with less than 20 staff

BENEFITS

- Problem solving: members share highly focused solutions with each other
- Access to a large body of practical knowledge and real-world material developed and tested by non-profit staff themselves
- Close knit network of peers that members can call upon for help
- Leadership skills developed from on-going practice and reflection with peers
- Substantial cost savings over 1-1 coaching

These sessions are guided by Mary Heidkamp, an experienced facilitator with more than 25 years of executive non-profit experience and knowledge of best practices from years of working with non-profits of all sizes. Groups are conducted virtually for maximum sharing and maximum respect for your time.
